HOW DO LEADERS BECOME NEXT GENERATION LEADERS?

The sweet spot for young leaders becoming next generation leaders is their ability to speak with confidence in public, interact with others and articulate the unique and brilliant ideas they have that will change their future and the world around them.

Let's be honest...cell phones and gaming are a ton of fun but most of us will not become game designers or professional texters...

Campers earn weekly field trips, that help kids learn how to manage their time, the value of hard work, interact with others and the importance of developing their own faith as they grow to trust God!
